The Bijou has a very pathetic picture, "The Drunkard's Child," and one that teaches a strong moral. While the dramatic interest is intense, the real worth of the film is in the lesson taught. Two other pictures are comical and the song is a good sentimental ballad.

To-night at the opera house the Gage Stock company will present Dan Sullivan's big success, "The Golden Rule." It is seldom that repertoire companies playing at 10, 20c, and 30c prices present all royalty plays as the Gage company is doing. This is the first visit of this company to Barre and its performances are pleasing good houses.

"Young" French of Montpelier presents the action of Charlie Bixby of Barre in spreading the word that he (French) is an "easy mark" on the mat and he right here and now orders said Bixby to "put up or shut up." French says he is willing to demonstrate to Bixby that he is "some" on the wrestling game himself. His conditions: two out of three, catch-as-catch-can to a finish, struggle hold barred.

"The Price of a Soul," at the Theatre, is of the kind that must be relied upon to advance motion picture production. The story is adapted from the opening chapters of Victor Hugo's famous "Les Miserables" and tells of the experience of "Jean Valjean" with the bishop when, after being expelled from the inn of the town he is taken by the good bishop and given food and shelter, but rewards his benefactor by making off with his silver plate and is arrested and taken back to the bishop's house, where the good man first saves him by declaring to the officers that the silver was a present to the prisoner. The bishop claims Jean Valjean's soul for God.

Another Biograph picture to-day at the Dreamland theatre, "With Her Card" is a picture in which some of the vagaries of a woman's whims are forcibly delineated. An actress has two lovers, one who really loves her and one whom she really loves, a difference which made a great distinction in this instance. She rejects the one who loves her, and the one she loves rejects her. Then she induces the one whom she rejected to ruin the one who rejected her by promising to marry him when it was accomplished. That is a good mix-up for a starter, but it represents the complications which make this picture an interesting bit of dramatic work. The new name sign loomed up in fine fashion last night and attracted a great deal of attention.

"The Wild Donkey," a film d'art at the Comique, is unquestionably of high rank in the silent drama. The parts are taken by celebrated French players and the acting is of that polished character seen in the high class subjects such as "La Tosca," "The Reckoning." The story is taken from Balzac and the dramatic strength and attractiveness of this picture is superior by far to many of the recent motion pictures seen. Another Biograph drama, "The Chord of Life," not since the production of "A Slave" has there been a film story as impressive. The staging, the photographic quality and the acting are all part of a harmonious whole which should be seen by every lover of moving pictures. It seems perfect in every sense of the word and may well be considered as the acme of the motion picture art. The Comique certainly has an enticing program of the most commendable merit.

Early Display of Fall Suits

Our Sale of Summer Suits last week cleared our racks and in their place you will find the new Fall Suits which are being called for by those who want the up-to-date garment for immediate use. In our new showing of Suits are some of the best numbers picked from a few of our best New York houses. In our north show window are displayed a few of our good numbers.

LADIES' TAILORED SUITS.

This Fall's suit season will be marked as a plain tailored suit season.

The market movement in Two-piece Jacket Suits of simple tailored style has been very heavy since the opening of the season. Suits of this character have been steadily growing in favor. Hardly a house but is feeling this very strongly, and in making up any new numbers manufacturers are inclined to increase the styles in these simple effects, while disregarding the more elaborate ones.

The popular Two-piece Jacket Suits are selling best in those styles having coats 42 to 46 inches long, the latter being the latest favorite. However, the 42 inch lengths are still in the more medium and popular priced lines.

Our early showing of these Suits consists mostly of samples of the popular cloths, made up in the best plain tailored effects.

Remember all of our Summer Suits, Coats and odd Skirts are selling at One-half Price.

The Raincoat

A Raincoat is a "jack-of-all of trades." If it looks misty, you slip into your Raincoat. If it turns to snow—well and good—and if it clears up—all right. Your Raincoat is as dressy as any light-weight Top Coat you could wear—a perfectly balanced Overcoat, cravenetted to turn water. $10, $12, $15 to $25. The Raincoat of today is a different proposition from the Coats of a few seasons ago. Our Raincoats are made by a maker with a reputation for making the best of Coats and we guarantee them in every way.
